I consider Microsoft's settlement offer to be more than fair. I have purchased Microsoft products for ten years and have never felt they should be penalized for making an honest dollar. Their prices have been fair and to penalize them in order to put dollars in the pockets of their competitors smacks of socialism and over regulation. Obviously the states that are dragging their feet are just like the rest of this country- they have too many attorneys who can't get employment in the private sector. I say Hurrah for Bill Gates, even if he appears to be a liberal democrat. He must be the exception that proves the rule .
